(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Detectives of New York, Jersey City and other nearby cities in New Jersey are working together to unravel the mystery of the death of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, whose nude body was found yesterday in the Morris Canal on the outskirts of Jersey City, under circumstances indicating murder.

The husband of the woman, a tailor in this city, was brought to police headquarters in this city early today and closely questioned.

Sgt. Phaler, in charge of the detective bureau, last night, said that Pulitzer told the police that he was out at the primary section on Tuesday night, and when he got home he decided to have a light supper and asked his wife to prepare some cocoa. There was some in the house, and she went to get some and also some bread and fruit. According to the police, Pulitzer learned later that his wife had been to the bakery for the bread, and there he lost track of her.

Sgt. Phaler added that Pulitzer had made a statement to the New York detectives which was considered so important that it would not be made public.

Mrs. Eva Fleming, who keeps the boarding-house where the Pulitzer family lived, at No. 140 West Forty-sixth street, said the couple had been living there about four weeks, the wife being quiet and that she had seen Mrs. Pulitzer only two or three times. She said Pulitzer told her they had been married about four years.

According to Mrs. Fleming, Pulitzer told her after his wife's disappearance, and before it was known she had been murdered, that he had come home at 11 o'clock, feeling sick and that his wife suggested she would get some fruit for him. He told her that the streets were crowded with men who had been attending the primaries, and that it would not be wise for her to go out.

She disregarded his suggestion, however, and, taking out some of her jewelry, went out for the fruit, and that was the last he saw of her. She identified her body at the Jersey City morgue. The police say that Pulitzer formerly had a business in this city, but gave it up and of late had been working at times for his brother, who has a tailor shop in this city.

Capt. Titus said the murdered woman's husband was in the hands of two detectives, and that they would go over the ground together today. The captain said he believed that Pulitzer's story was the truth.

Capt. Titus said that the most important clue he had at present was the fact that a man called at the house where the Pulitzer family lived on Tuesday. The theory of Chief of Police Murphy of Jersey City is that the woman was killed in New York and that the body was taken across the river in a ferryboat in a wagon. The chief thinks that some one who admired the woman killed her in a fit of jealousy.

The twenty-eight weight which was attached to the strap that was fastened about the dead woman's waist was identified today as the property of Charles E. Evans, who keeps a stable in Hoboken. Mr. Evans says that early Wednesday evening he saw the woman in his stable and said he wanted a rig that was capable of carrying a large valise, a strap and weight. He did not return the rig until 1 o'clock the next morning.

Evans, the livery man, after closely scrutinizing Joseph Pulitzer positively declared he was not the man who hired the rig.

MYSTERY SOLVED.
(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The mystery of the murder of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, whose nude body was found in the Morris Canal, near Jersey City, has been cleared up by the discovery that the woman was killed in a flat at No. 140 West Fifty-eighth street, where her clothing was found tonight.

This announcement was made late tonight by Capt. Titus, of the Detective Bureau, who alleged that the murder was committed by a man named Hooper Young, who has recently been employed in a cheap restaurant. This has been ascertained by the police, and the woman's body was kept for some time under the sink in the kitchen of the flat in which she was killed.

Young has not been arrested, and is believed to have fled from the city. He is said to have shipped a trunk to Chicago last night. He formerly worked for the Hoboken Crusader, and the police found his picture taken with a group of employees. This picture was shown the Hoboken livery men, who said they had never seen him.

TRENTON (N. J.) Sept. 19.—The Court of Errors and Appeals, this afternoon, by a vote of 8 to 3, decided in favor of the United States Steel Corporation in the suit brought by Mrs. Berger to restrain the corporation from converting $200,000,000 seven per cent. preferred stock into five per cent. second mortgage bonds. Vice-Chancellor Emery, in the court below, granted an injunction restraining the company from carrying out its purpose.

The Court of Errors and Appeals reverses the Vice-Chancellor's decision, and leaves the Steel Corporation free to carry out its project so far as the Berger litigation is concerned.

The opinion will be filed later.

At the time of Brigham Young's death, in 1877, John W. Young was one of the former's counselors. He was tried under the Edmunds law, charged with polygamy, but was acquitted on a technicality. Young is well known in Salt Lake, having up to a few years ago resided here.

SPA (Belgium) Sept. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Maria Henrietta, Queen of Belgium, died suddenly here today at ten minutes to 1 o'clock. Neither her husband, members of her family, nor Her Majesty's doctor were present at the time of her death. She was seated at a table eating a light dinner, when she was seized with an attack of syncope, or swoon, and died.

In the course of the day, had remarked upon certain disquieting symptoms in the Queen's condition, was summoned immediately, but Her Majesty was dead before he arrived. Two members of her suite were with the Queen during her last moments.

As soon as the news of the Queen's death became known, a large crowd gathered outside the palace. King Leopold had left Baginieres de Luchon, France, for Spa, and other members of the royal family have been telegraphed for. De Smid de Nayer, the Belgian Premier, will arrive here tomorrow.

SURPRISE TO POPULACE.
(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)
BRUSSELS, Sept. 19.—The news of the death of the Queen of the Belgians today came as a great surprise, especially in view of the reassuring reports which were circulated this morning, and which made the announcement of this evening still more of a shock.

At the Royal Opera-house, where "Hamlet" was being played, the ghost was summoned to make his entrance to the audience a telegram announcing the death of Her Majesty. The performance was discontinued.

People crowded the city streets, where extra editions of the newspapers containing long obituary notices of the Queen were being sold.

The demonstrations which had been arranged in honor of the visit to this city tomorrow of the Boer generals, postponed, and all the festivities planned for the occasion have been abandoned because of the death of the Queen.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) A further examination of the books of the Vienna Leader Bank which shows that the embezzlement of Ed. Jellinek, chief cashier of the bank's department, who died yesterday, was about $1,120,000. The frauds were effected by the manipulation of checks, and by making false entries in the books, somewhat similar to those of the Liverpool bank official.

Jellinek, however, had been discovered, however, that Jellinek has $250,000 to his credit with various Vienna firms, in addition to investments of upward of $500,000, in industrial enterprises.

Jellinek, later in the day, was reported to have committed suicide. Adolph Poller, head of a firm of motor-car builders, in which Jellinek is a partner, has been arrested on suspicion of complicity in the fugitive's frauds.

This money represents about all of the available cash in banks and financial institutions can furnish in the present financial stringency.

When Morgan discovered all of this he was very angry. He would not have cared at any other time, when money was abundant, but he did not like anybody to interfere with his plans. He sent for Judge Moore and expressed himself in vigorous terms. Judge Moore simply laughed over the situation. He told Morgan in a good-natured way that he did not think that the great financier had a monopoly of the money market, and he thought that he and his friends had a right to float enterprises at any time they saw fit. Morgan was forced to concede this, and the interest in the Rock Island plan subsided.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—Pending the proceedings at Jefferson City before the Supreme Court to secure the release on writs of habeas corpus of the former members of the House of Delegates, indicted on charges of bribery and perjury, the grand jury today adjourned its inquiry into boodler matters until Monday. Circuit Attorney Folk went to Jefferson City tonight to appear before the Supreme Court in behalf of the Sheriff and jailer, who were cited in connection with the application for a writ to show cause why the prisoners mentioned should not be released from custody.

At the request of the Circuit Attorney, Mayor Wells tonight sent a special message to each house of the Municipal Assembly, asking for an appropriation of $15,000 for a contingent fund, to be used by Folk in carrying on the investigation of alleged bribery charges against the members of that body.

In his letter to the Mayor, Circuit Attorney Folk said it was not expected that members of the lower house who have been implicated, or expect to be indicted for participation in the alleged bribery deals would vote for its passage, but it would give them an opportunity to go on record and show whether or not they were necessary for the Circuit Attorney's office to depend upon private subscriptions to carry on the investigation and prosecution.

Several members of the present House of Delegates now reside under indictments charging bribery and perjury in connection with the passage of the street railway and city lighting bills.

Gov. Dockery today authorized the issuance of rewards aggregating $1000 for arrest of certain indicted members of this and past houses who have not yet been arrested.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)
COLON, Sept. 19.—(By Atlantic Cable.) A large force of government troops was brought out this morning, and it was the intention of the authorities to have them take a train for Panama, but the railroad company declined to entrain the soldiers on the passenger train, but subsequently placed a special train at their disposal.

Shortly after 8 o'clock eighty blue jackets from the United States cruiser Cincinnati, together with two quick-firing Colt guns, were landed in Colon. This action is believed to be due to the receipt of information that a representative of Gen. Herrera is at San Fco., a station on the railroad. Under the circumstances the government decided not to entrain the troops for Panama. They will remain in Colon.

In the mean time the railroad dispatched a special train with definite instructions from Commander McLean, of the Cincinnati, to Gen. Herrera's representative at San Fco., saying that insurgent troops would not be permitted to board trains over the isthmus or board them, as American marines were maintaining the traffic from sea to sea.

A large force of insurgents is said to be quite close to San Fco. If this is so, there is likely to be fighting at any moment.

The return of the special from San Fco. will bring further news of the situation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook of Brooklyn, who is with Lieut. Peary on one of his arctic trips, and with the Belgians expedition to the South Pole, as chief surgeon, expresses the opinion that Peary's latest endeavor was by no means a failure, and that the explorer has added "material to the annals of science which will be found even more valuable than the actual discovery of the pole itself."

"All this talk about the terrible danger to be met before reaching the pole is sheer rot," continued Dr. Cook. "A man, all things taken into account, is just as safe on the arctic ice fields as he is in New York. There are no fever germs there, no contagious diseases, no miasmatic swamps, no sewer gas, no decaying vegetables, no rotting rag. Everything is on ice. There is no danger in traveling the ice fields, nor from the cold, which is not so severe as the cut of the saline blasts on the Atlantic seacoasts."

"It is the food question," he added, "that is the real danger that closes the way to the pole."

When this problem is solved, reaching the pole will, in his opinion, be quite a simple undertaking.

Capt. Otto Sverdrup, who was in command of the Fram during Dr. Nansen's expedition to the North Pole in 1893, sailed from Christiania, Norway, for the arctic regions, June 24, 1899. Previous to his sailing, Lieut. Peary complained at Capt. Sverdrup's expedition, and the captain explained with a letter that he did not aim to reach the pole, but only intended to explore Greenland, and make a study of the ice in that region, and by means of sledging journeys to explore the unknown regions of North Greenland.

For three years the Fram lay nearly motionless imprisoned in the ice in Jones's Sound, a channel between Baffin Bay and the Arctic Ocean. All the attempts to blow up the ice around the Fram proved fruitless, but in July of 1899 a heavy southern stream loosened the vessel from the ice.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) It was not James Wheeler's fault that the invaders walked away with the third straight game this season. The San Francisco team, who were a shadow, had the slugger swinging at all kinds of balls, and the hits down to a minimum. In the first of the five innings credited to the team from the South, only one ball and one run, but errors did not help them to do, and at the end of the game San Francisco was a couple of runs out.

The pitcher who came direct from the game made the fielding of fly balls. When a fly came in the direction of the wind took the ball a couple of feet out of its course, and the pitcher was necessary to make a throw. To this cause may be attributed one of the visitors' runs, and the San Francisco tally garnered by the invaders.

Wheeler's habit of starting out of the pitcher's box as the ball is pitched, he makes in the direction of the ball, if hit, and if not hit, he is in the line. In the first inning, he was never far away from the pitcher's box, and none got out of him. He was also lively in the line, and on grounds to the pitcher's box, and he was good and his hitting.

NO FIGHT FOR KENTUCKY.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

FRANKFORT (Ky.), Sept. 19.—The injunction granted yesterday by Judge Emmett Field of the Emerson Circuit Court restraining the Southern Athletic Club and others from pulling off the McGovern-Corbett contest for the featherweight championship of the world at Louisville, Monday evening next, was sustained by Associate Justice James D. White in the Court of Appeals this evening, and the contest will not be held in Kentucky. Judge White invited the full bench of the State court to sit with him and hear the case, which all but one member did, and the decision is one of the court, and the decision is one of the court, and the decision is one of the court.

OUR FALL SALE.

Has been in progress for some days. We take a great deal of pride in beginning our fall sale early in the fall as you have been so accustomed to seeing the right price on the left goods in January that should have been sold in the fall. And it really is a treat to you to have a store in trade at this time does not employ a weather department in order to find an excuse for making goods high to gradually come down as the need of them grows less. We are selling better than for 25 than you have ever seen sold heretofore. We are selling underwear from 50c to 75c per garment. We are selling strictly first-class goods "made to your measure" for 25c, 35c, 45c and 55c. We are selling beautiful silk neckties for 50c. You'll find our new goods priced at sale prices. Open till 11 o'clock tonight.

Smoking Jackets

Dressing Gowns and Bath Robes for Men. Too early for Christmas buying? Not a bit of it! Isn't it ever so much better to get first choice from a COMPLETE assortment than to wait till the last busy days when elbow room is at a premium, the choicest patterns gone, and a crowd of hurried buyers "pawing" over what's left? We've now the choicest collection we EVER had. Pick out what you want and we'll reserve it till Christmas.

SMOKING JACKETS—Or House Coats if he doesn't smoke—in 25 or 30 distinctive styles, at $5.00 to $15.00. Most of them are of strikingly handsome double-faced golf goods, in the new greens, browns, modes and grays. Some of black broadcloths. Those of golf goods are usually plain outside, except the collar, lapels, pocket flaps and cuffs, which are of the same bright p.d. as the lining, silk corded edges and silk frogs. No matter how sombre or how gay his tastes, here are jackets to suit every man.

ROBES and DRESSING GOWNS of every suitable material at $5.00 to $20.00. Double faced golf goods with silk corded edges have the cat. The gowns, besides having the heavy girdle, button up like a Rag'an.

PASTOR AND HIS FOES BOTH SCORE.

Second Round of Lamentable Contest in First Baptist Church—Wife Left Out of It.

WITH the tears streaming from his eyes, H. G. Jamies, chairman of the meeting that is hearing the charges brought against Pastor Smale of the First Baptist Church and the pastor's charges against certain alleged agitators, pleaded with the congregation to believe that he was rendering fair decisions. In the pews nearly half of the audience of 300 people were laughing at him.

This unusual sight was the climax to a church trial which has probably never been surpassed in Los Angeles for its remarkable features.

After four hours and a half, from 7:30 until 12 o'clock, last night the congregation of the divided church wrestled with the questions that have been brought up and then found their labors only partly completed and the great question whether Pastor Smale is to continue as their shepherd, untouched. The results of the meeting were the adoption of the two following resolutions, both offered by Prof. Melville Dozier:

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

"That, in our opinion, there has been agitation among the membership of this church which has been detrimental to the pastor's usefulness.

"That those who have regarded themselves as aggrieved by implication in the circular letter issued by the pastor to call this meeting and have responded thereto, have successfully established their innocence.

The third and fourth counts of the letter issued by the five members of the church which was distributed among the congregation last Saturday were merged into one. These were:

"Third—To hear, consider and pass upon the various complaints, together with the reasons therefor, of any and all members against Pastor Smale; also to hear, consider and pass upon the reasons of any or all of said persons why the present pastoral relations should be at once discontinued.

"Fourth—To hear, consider and pass upon the defense of Pastor Smale to each and all of said complaints.

The signers of this letter, which was published in Monday's Times, were C. C. Boynton, Richard Green, Dr. Barton Dozier, George E. Guilvits and Dr. Francis M. Parker.

Previous to the consideration of these two counts nothing of a sensational nature had occurred. There was an atmosphere of suppressed excitement.

When the meeting assembled and the chairman called the congregation to order at 7:30 o'clock, there were over three hundred members in their seats. They chatted pleasantly with each other and a casual observer might have thought it was going to be a love feast.

GREAT SECRECY.

No one not thoroughly acquainted with conditions would have known who was arrayed on the side of the pastor, or who was opposed to him.

When Chairman James called the meeting to order, it was painfully solemn. Member looked at member, and it was evident that powerful emotions were at work.

The greatest precautions had been taken to maintain secrecy. Each person, when he entered the building, unless he was well known by the two doorkeepers to be a member of the church, was asked for his membership card. No proxies were admitted, and all the doors of the church were guarded.

In addition to the double guard, two detectives in citizens' clothes, were stationed outside, and near by was a police officer.

Evidence of the strong feeling between the two factions was seen in the first motion made by a brother on the left, who was an adherent of the pastor.

With considerable agitation, he arose and made the following motion: "I move that the office of chairman of this meeting be considered vacant."

This was an attack on Mr. James. "I second that motion," I second that motion," came from several parts of the house, and the gauge was thrown down to the pastor's opposers.

The chair announced that it was in doubt. "I will call upon Prof. Dozier to settle the question as to whether that motion should be entertained by the chair or not."

"Inasmuch as no charges have been made against the chairman, and in the interests of fair play," said Prof. Dozier, "I would say that the motion is out of order."

"We will now proceed to the unfinished business of last night," was announced.

BATTLE BEGINS.

This consisted of the following: To give Pastor Smale an opportunity to be heard, in the following charges, made in his communication to the church, September 2, 1902: (This was the alleged opposition of twenty-one members of the congregation, who Pastor Smale said, had opposed him from the time he had taken charge of the church five years before.) Prof. Dozier's two resolutions were the conclusion of this matter. Up to this time neither side had gained any material advantage. It was decided that there had been agitation and also that the agitators had given good reasons for their position.

Then came the third and fourth counts, which were united by unanimous consent.

Under this head the complaints were to be heard. It had been whispered around that Pastor Smale's domestic affairs were to be aired; that he was going to be called upon to explain why he and his wife had separated, and why she would not return to him or even grant him a divorce.

No one had the chairman announced the business before the meeting.

ing than Prof. Tripp of Occidental College arose and made the following motion: "I move that we proceed to listen to any complaints that may be made except such as pertain to any domestic trouble, infidelity or anything that concerns the pastor's family relations."

There was a loud and long chorus of seconds to the motion.

The chair pondered long as to whether the motion was in order or not. "Hurry up!" "Hurry up!" "Put the motion!" were heard at him from below.

"I will ask Prof. Dozier to decide this question for us," was announced by the chair.

The chair decided that the question was one that should be put, even though the rules of order and the purposes for which the meeting had been called had to be set aside.

There was a strong chorus of "amens" from the body of the house, and the chair put the motion.

The most dramatic scene of the four hours and a half session was when the pastor, who has come here who is called had to be set aside.

Friends of the pastor were in a flurry of apprehension. They shouted "question," "put the question."

One man jumped to his feet and said: "I hope to God that there is not one of these women who has come here who is so degraded as to want to listen to the family affairs and troubles of our pastor. I have a wife and I say right here that any man who wants to go into his private affairs in this public place is a degenerate."

Women were weeping; men were shutting their fists and breathing hard and moving restlessly in their seats, and the pastor himself showed the first visible perturbation of the evening.

WRATH AND CLENCHED FISTS.

In spite of the tremendous opposition which the chairman's decision had stirred up, one man was hardy enough to debate the question. "Prof. Dozier said a few minutes ago that we should hold this investigation under the most burning and strongest light that we could bring to bear," said the speaker.

"Sit down," "shut up," "choke him off," were the greetings he received from his fellow church members.

Women, old and young, joined in the chorus, and some of the men doubled up their fists and shook them in his face.

For five minutes he tried to get a hearing, but the uproar not only continued unabated, but increased in volume so that his voice could not be heard.

He had to sit down finally, and then the anger of the congregation was directed against Chairman James for putting the motion.

As he advanced to the front of the rostrum to be heard he was met by a storm of opposition, even that which overpowered the previous speaker.

"As God is my witness," "put the motion," "shut up," "put the motion," were the greetings he received.

After awhile they were more quiet.

CHAIRMAN'S TEARS COME.

"As God is my judge," he almost sobbed, "I have tried to be fair. If I have seemed to oppose some of you it was only because, as chairman of this meeting, I wanted to decide all questions according to the rules of this church and parliamentary usage."

"There is a greater law for us here," interrupted an old man, in a quavering voice, "than Robert's Rules of Order, and that is the law of God."

A volley of "amens" followed this. Chairman James continued: "I was selected to this position last night, without solicitation. God knows it has been hard enough for me to be the target for so much vituperation."

Here his voice broke and he was obliged to pull a handkerchief from his pocket to wipe away the tears that were coursing down his cheeks.

WOMEN'S SHOUT.

"What a hypocrite he is," was the sympathetic answer from a number of women, and the men looked their scorn.

The chairman tried to continue. "I have been as fair," here his voice was drowned by the laughter that came up from the audience, in which the women predominated.

The chairman was obliged to sit down, and the cries for the question were so overwhelming that he was obliged to put it without further debate.

It was decided unanimously that the pastor's family relations should not be mentioned.

Then the complaints in opposition to the pastor were heard, and the reason given why he should not continue longer as the spiritual adviser of the flock.

The five men who signed the letter spoke from the rostrum.

CHARGES AND SMILES.

They opposed him on the grounds that he was narrow, stubborn, selfish, of too small caliber to hold such a prominent and influential position, not in sympathy with the young people, too zealous to rule everything and to have his hand in all the details of the church government, and that he was not altogether a man of his word.

While these charges were being made, and throughout the whole session, Pastor Smale sat beside the chairman on the platform. He took copious notes, and on several occasions asked questions or made suggestions.

When the complaints were being made his pen was busy dipping and writing, and occasionally when one of the speakers would refer to some particular instance to show why Pastor Smale could not be such a smile would cross his features, and looking over the audience he would see this smile repeated in many other countenances.

The opposition was exceedingly strong in spite of this deprecation, and the men and women who were in it were prominent and showed by the earnestness of the speech and their manner, that they spoke from their hearts, and that the best interests of the church were uppermost in their minds.

Interference in the Sunday-school, which it was alleged, had been to the detriment of that department, was one of the strongest points scored.

A sweet-faced girl of 20 was so eloquent that she was given ten minutes instead of the five that the speakers were limited to, and in that time she told how the pastor had wished to rule the Sunday-school with an iron hand, and how he had refused them certain improvements which they needed, and had forced upon them some things which were repugnant to the teachers, and all without giving any reasons for his action.

One woman who was formerly a member of the church said that she severed those relations because she would not stay in the congregation while Mr. Smale was pastor.

"One reason I have for opposing Mr. Smale is that during his five years with us he has failed to uplift us in any way or to improve the character of his congregation. I have only to refer to the disgraceful scenes that were enacted here tonight to prove my point."

After hearing about thirty members of the opposition, a motion to adjourn until Monday night at 7:30 o'clock was put and carried. Pastor Smale wanted to hear the rest of the complaints, and suggested that those who had any to make would stand up, so that an idea of their number might be learned. He explained his reason for asking this by saying that if there were only a few they might be heard at that time, and leave the Monday night session to himself in which to answer the charges. As several arose at this, and it was then midnight, it was decided to hear the rest of the charges at the adjourned session, and also the pastor's answer.

A sweet-faced girl of 20 was so eloquent that she was given ten minutes instead of the five that the speakers were limited to, and in that time she told how the pastor had wished to rule the Sunday-school with an iron hand, and how he had refused them certain improvements which they needed, and had forced upon them some things which were repugnant to the teachers, and all without giving any reasons for his action.

One woman who was formerly a member of the church said that she severed those relations because she would not stay in the congregation while Mr. Smale was pastor.

"One reason I have for opposing Mr. Smale is that during his five years with us he has failed to uplift us in any way or to improve the character of his congregation. I have only to refer to the disgraceful scenes that were enacted here tonight to prove my point."

After hearing about thirty members of the opposition, a motion to adjourn until Monday night at 7:30 o'clock was put and carried. Pastor Smale wanted to hear the rest of the complaints, and suggested that those who had any to make would stand up, so that an idea of their number might be learned. He explained his reason for asking this by saying that if there were only a few they might be heard at that time, and leave the Monday night session to himself in which to answer the charges. As several arose at this, and it was then midnight, it was decided to hear the rest of the charges at the adjourned session, and also the pastor's answer.

It was decided unanimously that the pastor's family relations should not be mentioned.

Then the complaints in opposition to the pastor were heard, and the reason given why he should not continue longer as the spiritual adviser of the flock.

The five men who signed the letter spoke from the rostrum.

CHARGES AND SMILES.

They opposed him on the grounds that he was narrow, stubborn, selfish, of too small caliber to hold such a prominent and influential position, not in sympathy with the young people, too zealous to rule everything and to have his hand in all the details of the church government, and that he was not altogether a man of his word.

While these charges were being made, and throughout the whole session, Pastor Smale sat beside the chairman on the platform. He took copious notes, and on several occasions asked questions or made suggestions.

When the complaints were being made his pen was busy dipping and writing, and occasionally when one of the speakers would refer to some particular instance to show why Pastor Smale could not be such a smile would cross his features, and looking over the audience he would see this smile repeated in many other countenances.

The opposition was exceedingly strong in spite of this deprecation, and the men and women who were in it were prominent and showed by the earnestness of the speech and their manner, that they spoke from their hearts, and that the best interests of the church were uppermost in their minds.

Interference in the Sunday-school, which it was alleged, had been to the detriment of that department, was one of the strongest points scored.

Men's Clothing Department in Its New Quarters.

The remodeling which has been necessary because of transportation of our clothing and several other departments has all been completed and the stocks are all in shape for easy inspection. The rearranging of these immense clothing stocks gave us a chance to find and take out every odd suit and all broken lines, place them by themselves and at the same time put forward the handsome new fall suits which are already in. No change which we have made in this store will be more appreciated by men than this putting the men's departments in an exclusive part, easy of access and just as convenient as any exclusive clothing store. The wage earners of Los Angeles who dress well and yet at the same time do not affect tailor made suits, will find they will get better values for their money by dealing with us than by any possibility they can secure elsewhere; and they have the further assurance that every man's suit in our department is union made and bears the union label.

Fall School Suits For Boys.

From the big trade we did the week prior to the opening of school we know what the parents of Los Angeles think of the values they get in our boys' clothing department. Nor do they make a mistake; for no firm can give more attention to securing values in boys' clothing than ourselves. We are as careful in selecting them from the manufacturer as in selecting garments for adults, and we do not hesitate to replace with a new suit any boys' suit which wears unsatisfactorily. Bring in the boys and let us fit them out for we know we can save you from 15 to 25 per cent. over what you would pay at other stores.
